Middos Mentions!

Yisrael was a positive role model in PE class! He followed directions and was quiet even while others were talking!

Shmuel cleaned up someone else's garbage in the lunchroom! Thank you!

Naomi smiled and was calm when someone accidentally spilled water on her skirt and on her Middos project. What amazing, calm Middos!

Michal & Adina helped their friend clean up her giant, messy spill!

From the Principal

Mrs. Lea Goldstein

Recently, I was invited to join a podcast about parenting. While I've heard from many of you that you love podcasts, many others have never tried this relatively new medium. Fans of podcasts rave about the flexibility since listeners can download or stream the file and replay it at whatever time is convenient for them, even while walking, making dinner or driving to work.

Parenting is probably the hardest job in the world, but also the most rewarding. When we navigate the rapids of child-rearing, we will sometimes feel that we are drowning - and in way over our heads. Often, we have to learn from experience, but slowly, hopefully, we learn to trust our gut and use techniques that we learn. And as we learn on the job, we need to remember that just because we might not be the best parents today, doesn't mean that we can't be fabulous parents tomorrow.

While parents delegate some of the responsibility of child-rearing to schools, ultimately, it is the parents' job to mold these precious little people into good, moral human beings who will contribute productively to this world. As partners with you in helping your children develop into "אנשי אמת זרע קודש בה' דבקים ומאירים את העולם בתורה ובמעשים טובים ובכל מלאכת עבודת הבורא" we are happy to share a link to this parenting podcast.
